THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Labor leaders, not the rank and file, are on the war path. After 12 years of coddling, cuddling and pampering by the New Deal, they find themselves restricted to the rules that govern the rest of us. The public, represented by huge majorities in both houses of congress, put an end to organized labor tyranny, organized labor monopoly, organized labor infringement on the rights of the rest of us. The people of the United States have decreed that a labor despotism is on all fours with the big industrial despotism of capitalists. We don't want and wont have either.

We don't believe President Truman helped himself much, politically speaking, with his veto of the labor bill. We note with satisfaction that both Senate and House showed larger majorities in passing the measure over the president's veto than it had in passing it in the first place. Truman may have forgotten that only a little over a year ago he was all for drafting into the army striking railway workers, but the rest us have not. It seems certain that Truman has helped to split his own party and to make Henry Wallace either a menace to his candidacy in event menace to his candidacy in evet labor turns to Wallace as a third party leader, as at the moment, leaders of labor are doing.

How far labor organizations are in revolt, as distinguished from their leadership, is still a question. Undoubtedly the communists and their fellow-trevalers are turning to Wallace. But here and there through the country, the voice of organized labor, such as heads of individual unions, is heard approving the new labor law. Time will tell whether we are now listening only to the very disgruntled high command of labor, the left wingers, and the communists, always ready to disrupt, even though it be their own foul roosting place. We believe the rank and file labor union member was extremely tired of strikes and their cost to him.

The alignment of right and left will become plain in a year from now with the primary elections. Just now Harry Bridges and John L. Lewis are visibly throwing their weight around. Phillip Murray is busily assessing his new legal environmet, and William Green is saying things noo, that later on, he will probably wish he had left unsaid. For after all the new law puts his unions on a plain of equality with the CIO, which they did not have prior to the new labor law. For there can be no more unpunished wild cat strikes, no jurisdictional strikes. Along with Lewis, both Murray and Green can thank themselves for the law that they protest. It was their abuse of power which brought about the reformation in labor laws.

Labor leaders are smart enough to note the big majorities in congress which curbed them. It means, if they are honest in weighing signs and portents, that an overwhelming majority of the population of this country has had enough of labor tyranny. Congress is merely reflecting the popular will. If that conception of the law sinks into labor thinking, it may tend to curb the present violent reaction. In case it doesn't, congress is still there to pass even more restrictive laws.

As we see it, the crying need of this country ever since the war ended, has been stability of prices and wages. The uncertain factor, by and large has been wages. Manufacturers can make no plans for the future, so long as it has no assurance of stable labor conditions. Labor leaders have not respected their own contracts. The new law will compel them to do this or suffer heavy penalties. Employers can now estimate what their costs will be, and not be forced to fix prices at a level to take into account all possible contingencies such as quickie strikes, slow downs and outright violations of labor contracts.

The principle of collective bargaining, so important to labor organizations, is left undisturbed, but it must be bargaining and not bludgeoning on either side. The Labor Relations Board, which has notoriously leaned heavily to CIO favoritism, will be enlarged and, we hope, purged of its left wing underlings, who for instance, have tried repeatedly to bring California gold mining industry under NLRB control, despite the U. S. Circuit decision that gold mining in this state, at any rate, is not in interstate commerce, and therefore outside NLRB jurisdiction.

PLEA FOR ONE ARMED BANDITS GET THUMBS DOWN FROM SUPERVISORS

NEVADA CITY: Lou Moore, slot machine akent. Wednesday morning made a plea to the board of supervisors to amend the recent ordinance which bans slot machines in Nevada County, so that "free play" machines may be operated.

Moore proposed that such machines pay the county an annual tax of $100 each, payable quarterly, and estimated that if an amendment to this effect were made the county would receive $6,000 a year in additional taxes. He insisted that the "free play" machine is quite different from the slot machine. He said that when a player wins he gets a free chance to play the machines an indicated number of times.

Supervisor Frank Rowe inquired whether it was not customary, when a player of the "'free play" machine had won and did not wish to play anymore to pay off in money. Moore admitted that it was. Rowe who introduced the new ordinance, charged that slot machines had appeared in cafes and pool halls, just after the grand jury adjourned in December, and Moore admitted this was wrong, but said the operators "got too hungry." Rowe replied that was the reason the ordinance was passed, the operators were always "'too hungry."

Moore declared the present ordinance would freeze out local operators but would let big operators come in. Rowe rejoined: "Not in Nevada County." Moore said he had some 30 "free pla" machines in operation in the county now. The supervisors took no action on his appeal.

When Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins and local police under Chief Frank Knuckey searched the Price home last week, they found goods allegedly taken from several Grass Valley homes. Burglaries of these houses have been charged against Neil and Wesley Etherington, Sanford Williams and his wife, Etta, all of whom have been apprehended in Siskiyou county and charged with felonies.

Mrs. Price is the mother of Sanford Williams. A postponement was made for the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Freda Michelson. She is the mother of the Etherington brothers. It is alleged that, in a search of her home, the four minors in the Yreka jail were found. Mrs. Michelson is out on $2000 bail.

MYSTERY QUEEN REVEALED AT LAST

GRASS VALLEY: The lovely, curvatious, flirtatious, heavily veiled "mystery" Queen of the Gold Trail Riders was at last unveiled—All the way down to her (?) dainty pink bloomers.

It seems that the lovely Latin lady was getting nowhere under the handicap of the enticing but too enveloping veil—the Gold Trail Riders were getting desperate—and as a last resort the poor female was forced to auction off, not only her veil, but her mantilla, her bolero, her sash, her skirt, her blouse, her stockings and shoes yes, even her girdle.

The disrobing of the unfortunate lady took place 8 p. m. Wednesday at the corner of Neal and Auburn Streets before a large anxious and eager multitude.

To Mitch Painter, stalwart member of the Gold Trail Riders, went the honor of introducing the dainty bit of Latin feminity.

Art Remmple was the persuasive auctioneer.

The first article of clothing to fall by the wayside was the lady's mantilla, then her bolero, and so on through the aforementioned unmentionables until the shapely queen was shivering in her last to articles of clothing, her bras and her bloomers.

"What are we bid for the last thing?" shouted Art Remble as the queen blushed her prettiest. And as the bidders hesitated the hat was passed. Money poured in. And the Mystery Queen removed her—wig. Revealing herself (?) to be none other than Dick Lostetter, manager of the Kennedy Sporting Goods, Hills Flat and Mystery Queen of the Gold Trail Riders.

Through previous agreement with the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce, the "Mystery Queen" was to step down even if elected so there is no possibility of seeing Lostetter as Queen of the Fourth.

ADOLF HITLER'S long-promised Volkswagon is now being manufactured by the British. The Volkswagon (or People's Car) is the one pipe dream Der Fuehrer had which wasn't strictly from opium.

The car not only works fine but is called "revolutionary"—which is a word that always gave Adolf the shakes.

Adolf promised the German people he'd build 'em the Volkswagon as long as 10 years ago. But as this was Hitler Promise No. 1,234,567 no one took him seriously.

Adolf even showed burghers and their frauschaus a set of the prettiest blue prints ever devised. It was the snappiest little gas buggy anyone ever saw—on paper.

Then Hitler pulled his switch and out of the Nazi motor-car mills there poured a stream of—not Volkswagons—but tanks.

That's where Der Fuehrer pulled his biggest boner. It was those tanks that, in the end, took him for a one-way ride.

Now other people are going to cash in on Adolf's idea for a first class flivver. Maybe one reason Hitler botched the Volkswagon plan was that the car, being a modern automobile, has no need of a crank.

Veterans' News

Liberalized National Service Life Insurance has been especially designed to give veterans of World War II maximum peace time security and protection, especially when the veteran becomes permanently disabled for an extended length of time.

Two of the most important features of GI insurance, administered by the Veterans Administration, are provisions for waiver of premium on account of total disability and on income paid the veteran while totally disabled.

Waiver of premiums on account of total disability is automatically provided in all types of NSLI, including low rate term insurance, ordinary life, 20 and 30 payment life, 20 year endowment and endowment at age 60 and 65.

Total disability is defined as any impairment of mind or body which continuously renders it impossible for the veteran to follow any substantially gainful occupation.

Waiver of premium may be granted upon written application by the veteran after he has been totally disabled for six consecutive months, provided he became totally disabled after the date of his application for insurance, while his insurance was in force under premium paying conditions and prior to his 6th birthday.

The veteran who becomes totally disabled and makes application for waiver of premiums should continue to pay premiums regularly until he receives notice from VA of entitlement to waiver. All premiums the veteran has paid from the date the waiver is made effective will be refunded without interest.

In order to provide an income should he become totally disabled, a veteran, for a small additional premium, may insert a total disability income provision into any type GI insurance policy he is carrying.

The disability income feature provides payment of $5 a month for each $1,000 of insurance in force for veterans who are totally disabled for more than six months, commencing prior to the veteran's 60th birthday.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

This week, the nation celebrates Independence Day, commemorating the adoption of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776.

The anniversary of our nation's birth, when our forefathers threw off the yoke of a tyrannous oppressor, July 4 unquestionably is the country's outstanding patriotic holiday and rightfully so.

It is unlikely however that many citizens today run a temperature over the wrongs which Great Briatin inflicted on the Trihteen Colonies and feel a thrill over the fact that we have achieved our independence therefrom.

In fact, Great Britain, now our closest friend and ally, has shrunk considerably in stature and stands in the shade of the dominant world power that its erstwhile colony, our nation, has become.

That being the case, perhaps we should seek some new significance for Independence Day, such as worldwide independence from fear of war and atomic power, worldwide independence from ignorance and illiteracy, worldwide independence from hunger and want. It's an idea.

WASHINGTON NOTES

By Congressman Clair Engle

REPORT ON LEGISLATION

In approximately six weeks in all problems by that time will not have cessed. A great many important promlebs by that time will not have been dealt with by congress. As to measures of direct interest to the Second District the outlook apears as follows:

The insect control bill introduced by Congressman Goff of Idaho and me, of great importance to the lumber industry, passed the house on Monday and has been sent down to the president for his signature. The on the job training bill to increase the amount paid veterans of world war 2 on apprentice training, introduced by me and fifteen other members of the house, has been voted out of the committee on world war veterans legislation but is stalled in the rules committee, which does not seem disposed to act on any veterans legislation this session. There is a possibility that it will be voted out. I introduced two bills relating to public lands, calling for in lieu tax payments to local governments—one relating exclusively to national forest and the other a general bill covering all types of federal ownership. Recently extensive hearings were held on these bills, which were vigorously supported by representatives of some fifteen different states who traveled here to Washington to testify. We have made substantial progress toward favorable consideration of these measures but because of the early adjournment I doubt if we get any action after the first of January. Senator Cordon has the senate companion of the national forest bill and has stated that he expects to get it out of committee andthrough the senate—that may improve the possibility of getting favorable action on this particular aspect of the problem. A bill I have introduced of interest to the California Indians calls for a new census roll of the California Indians who now hold a judgment of more than $5,000,000 against the federal government. This census roll will determine the number and names of the Indians entitled to participate as beneficiaries of the judgment. This bill has been favorably acted on by house and I think will get through the senate in time. The public lands committee the other day voted out two bills relating to national forests in my district. One extends the national forest service jurisdiction to cover the recreational features of Shasta Lake—a measure requested by numerous northern California organizations. I anticipate that favorable action will be taken on this bill before recess. The same is true of a bill to adjust the bondaries of the Modoc National Forest in order to facilitate the sustained yield program now supporting lumber mills in Modoc County, one in Alturas and the other at Adin. A hearing will be held this week or next on the bill I have again introduced to compensate the gold miners for their losses resulting from the closing of the gold mines. Since that measure would cost the federal treasury some $18,000,000 or $20,000,000 I doubt very much if the house leadership is going to look on it with too much favor, in view of the vigorous effort being made to show a reduction of the federal budget.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

NEVADA CITY: Doris Foley, president of the Nevada County Historical Society, has received the following letter from James R. N. Weaver, Commanding General at Camp Beale.

Mr Dear Mrs. Foley:

"Acknowledging your letter of June 19th, opportunity is taken to inform you that a donation of fifty dollars from the headsuarters fund has been authorized directed this date, for the post's part in your commendable project for memoralizing the soldiers interred in the Camp Far West Pioneer Cemetery.

It is understood their names will be placed on a proper plaque on the existing monument.

The commanding officer at Camp Beale will have a continuing interest in your work to this end."

JAMES R. N. WEAVER.

A fifty dollar check was enclosed. General Weaver realizes the records of the past are beyond price. Once gane, they can never be replaced, and the Nevada County Historical Society regrets the departure of their distinguished member and friend from Camp Beale

The society is deeply indebted to O. P. Renner, post engineer at Camp Beale, who has made its contact with the military possible. It was through his efforts, the successful excursion through the cantonment was made.

His extensive research in Sacramento, has resulted in a complete file of the letters of Captain Hannibal Day, stationed at Camp Far West in 1849.

Renner has presented these valuable documents to the museum library.

The names of eight soldiers interred at the Camp Far West Pioneer Cemetery have been made known through Mr. Renner's diligent research and these names will be inscribed on the plaque placed on the monument there.

With the dismantling of Camp Beale, Mr. Renner has procured an exhibit of camp trophies. Museum chairman, Elmer Stevens, is preparing them for display, July 4th.

The Historical Museum located on Main Street, Nevada City, will maintain the following opening hours, during the July 4th holidays.

Friday, July 4th, 1 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Saturday, July 5th. 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Sunday, July 6, 10 a. m. to 4 p.

Veterans' News

National Service Life Insurance often described as the greatest benefit granted the majority of veterans by a grateful government, places the emphasis on life when it comes to protecting the veteran.

Although many veterans retain or reinstate their NSLI to provide protection for their families in the event of their deaths, the insurance is actually worth a great deal to the veteran during his life time.

Contrasting the one benefit, death claims, paid on the death of the veteran, are five benefits that operate to protect the veteran during his lifetime. These liberal benefits are:

Loans on permanent insurance. Cash value. Proceeds of endowment. policies. Disability premium waiver and disability income payments.

A loan up to 94 per cent of the reserve may be made on any permanent NSLI policy, which includes ordinary life, 20 and 30 payment life, 20 year endowment and endowments at age 66 and 65, at any time after the policy has been in effect one year.

Any permanent form of NSLI premiums for which have been paid in full for one year may be surrendered for its cash value. The cash surrender value differs with each type of policy, and will be reduced by loan indebtedness, if any.

Three types of endowment policies are available, which at the end of 20 years or at the ages of 60 or 65 premium payments cease and the policyholder is paid in a lump sum or monthly installments of 36 to 240 in number. If the insured dies before the end of the endowment period the face value of the policy will be paid to the beneficiary.

All NSLI policies provide for waiver of premiums after a veteran has been totally disabled for six or more consecutive months. Premium payments should be made by the veteran until the waiver is granted and premiums aid during the period of disability will be retruned.

For a small additional premium, a new disability feature may be added to all types of NSLI upon application. This feature provides payment of $5 a month for each $1000 of insurance in force for veterans who are totally disabled for more than six months commencing prior to the veteran's 60th birthday. Payments commence on the first day of the seventh consecutive month of disability.

Q: Can I specify in my National Service Life Insurance policy that in event my wife remarried after my death, payment of the balance of insurance benefits shall be made to my mother.

A: No.

It costs more than $28,600,000 a month to operate Branch No. 12 of the Veterans Administration, California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii, and pay benefits to the more than 1,169,000 veterans and their dependents in the branch area, Col. T. J. Cross, deputy administrator, disclosed.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

DONNER PARTY SITES REVISITED

Since the excursion to the Donner Camps on Alder Creek, members of the Nevada County Historical Society have been interested in learning more about these sites.

The following is quoted from Eliza Donner Houghton's book, "The Expedition of the Donner Party." "Up and up we toiled until we reached an altitude of 6000 feet, and were within about ten miles of our companions at the lake, when the intense cold drove us into camp on Prosser Creek in Alder Creek Valley, a picturesque and sheltered nook two and a half miles in length and three quarters of a mile in width. No one observed the picturesque grandeur of the forest coered mountains which hem it in on the north and west; nor that eastward and southward it looks out across plateaus to the Washoe Mountains twenty miles away.

The teams were hurriedly unhooked, the tents pitched, and the men and women began collecting material for more suitable quarters. Some felled trees, some lopped off the branches, and some, with oxen, dragged the logs into position. There was enough building material on the ground for a good sized foundation four logs deep, when night stopped the work. The moon and stars came out before we went to bed, yet the following morning the ground was covered with snow two or three feet in depth, which had to be shoveled from the exposed beds before their occupants could rise.

I remebiber well that new day. All plans for log cabins had to be abandoned. There was no sheltered nook for shivering children, so father lifted Georgia and me onto a log, and mother tucked a buffalo robe around us saying, 'Sit here until we have a better place for you.' There we sat snug and dry, chatting and twisting our heads about, watching the hurrying anxious workers. Those not busy at the wagons, were helping the builders to construct a permanent camp.

"They cleared a space under a tall pine and reset the tent a few feet south of its trunk, facing the sunrise. Then, following the Indian method as described by John Baptiste, a rude semi-ciircular hut of poles was added to the tent, the tree trunk forming part of its north all, and its needled boughs, the rafters and cross pieces to the roof. The structure was overlaid as far as possible with pieces of cloth, old quilts, and buffalo robes, then with boughs and branches of pine and tamarack. A hollow was scooped in the ground near the tree for a fireplace, and an opening in the top served as chimney and ventillator. One opening led into the tent and another served as an outdoor door.

"To keep the beds off the wet earth, two rows of short posts were driven along the sides of the tent, and poles were laid across the tops, thus formig racks to support the pine boughs upon which the beds should be made.

"The combination of tent and hut was designed for my father and family, and Mrs. Wolfinger. The teamsters, Samuel Shoemaker, Joseph Reinhart, James Smith and John Baptiste, built their hut in Indian wigwam fashion.

"Not far from us across the stream braced against a log, was reared a mixed structure brush and tent for use of Uncle Jacob, Aunt Betsy, William and Solomon Hook (Aunt Betsy's sons by a former husband), and their five small children, George, Mary, Isaac, Lewis and Samuel Donner."

Mrs. Jennie Westlow, who lived at a sawmill on Alder Creek, at the age of ten, tells of her experience finding the ruins of the George Donner Camp 26 years after the tragedy.

"In a tiny glade Mother and I found the roofless ruins of an old hut, upon which willows were encroaching. There was a wagon bed half covered with debris which lay alongside the cabin. Mother, upon seeing the ruin, declared it was one of the Donner shelters.

Immediately south of the ruins was a large yellow pine and I believe the tree still stands.

The wagon had lain there for more than 25 years, and the wheels and most of the iron fittings were gone, apparently removed by passing emigrants. My step father later tore out a hardwood plank from the wagon bed and used it as part of an ornamental chest he was making. I had that chest for years but lost it after I placed it in storage."

Edwin H. Johnson, Sacramento historian writes of his findings around the Jacob Donner Camp site. "In 1939, I found two ancient bits of ax-notched timber, set together at right angles, and nailed with hand wrought iron nails.

"The ancient timber was near the place where, in 1930, I found a slight depression which I presumed to be the brial place of a Donner party member. Grayish earth, was declared by experts to be calcium, and appeared to be disintegrated bone. Mixed with the earth were two strands of human hair, apparently from the head of a woman. The place might be the lonely grave of Mrs. Elizabeth Donner, the wife of Jaiob Doner."

THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Thinking over the news from played by barbarians in history, we which was Molotov's rejection of the Marshall plan, which Bevin for Great Britain and Bidault for France have been trying to sell him, we came to the conclusion, that, after all, despite some spectacular advances in science and military organization, Russia is still a nation of barbarians, newly come to power chiefly because it has been forcibly unified.

Reflecting further on the role played by barbarians in history we find some events that are roughly analgous. For instance the Japanese. Why did the Japanese strike at the United States at Pearl Harbor when we had already demonstrated our power of organization and production in the first World War? We think it was due almost entirely to an underestimate of our power. The underestimate was based on a false conception of our democracy, our reluctance to engage in war, and a theory that dissident elements of our population would defeat the purpose of the majority in case we did engage in war.

Enlightened graduates of our universities in Japan were suppressed, their voices were never head. The government controlled all news of the world and the impotence of our democrary in war, contrary to all lessons of history, was continually stressed. The people after centuries of fuedalism, were easily deceived. As a result people who had arrived in the twentieth century, with at best, a sixteenth century civilization, were terribly beaten. Their imitation of western machines of war especially the two monster battleships they built, were, after all, ineffective because essentially the Japanese measured by our standards were and still are barbarians. Nothing marks it as much as the national docility under General MacArthur.

Barbarians, it is true, did overthrow ancient civilization of Rome, after an infiltration of several centuries had weakened the Roman empire. The decadence of Rome, we have to remember, was due in large part of the practice of slavery under which Greek scholars as well as black Africans were imported as prisoners of war.

While it is difficult to compare ancient with modern times, with supersonic airplanes just around the corner, it can be noted that Russia is a land of prison camps, not only containing several millions of its own population which in some way or other rebelled against communist orthodoxy but some millions of Japanese, Germans, and other nationals who have not yet been repatriated. In civilized countries this does not occur except during the war. War prisoners and political prisoners, such as the millions of Russians engaged in forced labor, are just as much a weakening factor as they were in days of ancient Rome. A slave population is bound to be a rebellious element. We haven't a doubt that when Russia prepares to strike, her slave population will be exterminated. Her barbarism is of the Asiatic variety which takes little account of human life.

Russia is deliberately building its empire of communism upon the same principle as did Japan its commercial empire. Ignorance of the foe, for we are foes of the Russian way of life and misinterpretation of our motives. The few that rule Russia and hold for the moment its destiny in their hands will not challenge us so quickly and rashly as did the military and feudal lords of Japan. They are wiser and they do not minimize the cost of war. The repeated efforts of Gromyko to persuade the United States to forego its present advantage in an atomic bomb stockpile, and at the same time refusing to submit to the inspection of an international committee to see that no more such bombs are made anywhere in the world, indicates on the one hand the fear which the United States inspires in Russian leadership, and on the other, the Russian determination to master the atomic technique itself and to use it, if considered necessary to the communistic world revolution.

But, if we learned anything in this war, it must be never to trust nations whose whole philosophy rests on the unchristian doctrine that the end justifies he means. By and large this is the philosophy of fang and claw, the mark of the barbarian who has recently come to power.

BETTY STEELE ELECTED QUEEN BY BIG MAJORITY

GRASS VALLEY: Betty Steele, winner of the 49er and Frontier Days Queen contest, Friday received many congratulations on her overwhelming victory.

It was annuonced that the Queen this year takes the place of the time honored Goddess of Liberty in the parade and social functions of the Fourth celebration.

Del Powell reported the result of the final count of ballots for the seven candidates. Betty Steele, Elks candidate, 109,562; Lorraine Davis, organized labors' candidate, 52,260; Veryl Painter, American Legion Auxiliary 45,779; Pat Keernon, Eagles, 40,233; Mary Ann Shamberger, Lions, 25,319; Marjorie Ashburn, American Legion, 8,260; and the Gold Trail Riders "mystery" candidate, who was revealed to be a masquerading male, 5,576 votes.

In an upraorious strip taase performance at the corner of Neal and Auburn Streets, the mystery candidate, finally removed "her" wig and was revealed as Dick Lostutter, manager of the Horse and Riders Trading Post.

NID HAVING TROUBLE FILLING DURBROW'S POST

GRASS VALLEY: The two man committee named by directors of the Nevada Irrigation District to recommend a successor to Manager William Durbrow annonced Saturday they had received three applications for the post, but found none had the qualifications for the job.

Petitions signed mainly in the Placer County section of the district were received from water users and land owners asking that William Durbrow, who has expressed a desire to retire, be retained in a consultative capacity on the staff after a new manager has been chosen.

A letter was received from Fred Searls, Jr., president of the Newmont Mining Company, urging deep thought and no hasty action in regard to the NID's internal affairs. He stated his organization had purchased $350,000 of the district's bonds, which had been dumped on the market, to prevent them from dropping to lower valuations.

CONJECTURE ON TUM SUDEN BOY DISAPPEARANCE

NEVADA CITY: The mystery of the disapearance of little Dickie Tum Suden over at Goodyear's Bar in Sierra County has never been cleared up, but Pat Sheehy, Sierra County mining man, now a guest at the Yuba River Inn at Sierra City, yesterday, on a business trip to Nevada City related a story that he believes may explain one way the child could have vanished.

Looking out of his cabin yesterday morning Sheehy said he saw a huge "something" flying through the air, alighted only a few yards from his cabin under a large pine grove. He ran out and called his neighbors. The bird tried to rise but his wing spread was so great he couldn't make it through the tree branches.

"Everyone in the vicinity was excited," said Sheehy. "I asked the youngsters not to shoot it, it might be against the law. But one lad did shoot it. Its wing spread, which I measured, was over six feet, probably seven. Its talons were black, slim, and sharp as needles, about as long as my little finger, say ,two inches. It was a powerful bird, an immense eagle, probably two or three years old, whose head had not yet turned white.

"The other day I was driving to Reno and along the way we came on a flock of sheep and their herder. I passed the time of day with the herder, and asked him how many sheep he had. He said 2200 and remarked he was having a hard time keeping the eagles from carrying off the lambs.

"When little Dickie Tum Suden disappeared, I happened to come upon that desolate home just when Sheriff Johnson and his deputy had arrived to make their investigation. I am not superstitious, but to my mind there is something more than a coincidence in all this. I really think that an eagle that can get away with a lamb weighing 25 or 30 pounds, might have carried off that little boy."

IT PAYS TO LIE

GRASS VALLEY: Errol MacBoyle, president of the Idaho Maryland Mines Cororation, and Neil O'Donnell yesterday contributed a check for $100 as a prize for "The Tallest Tale from the Heart of the Gold Country."

In other words, it's a liars contest.

Contributions for the biggest lie competition must be at the Chamber of Commerce before 6 p. m. July 4th. Lies must be presented in written form. Two hundred and fifty words is the maximum length allowed.

The winning liar will have his prevarication read over KGFN on the broadcast from Chisler's Gulch between 8 and 9 p. m. on the night of July 5th, and it will be printed in the July 10th issue of the Nugget.

Three impartial judges will award the $100 prize and choose several of the best to be read during the radio broadcast,, when the winner is presented with the check.

Residents who heard of the contest predicted that the chamber would be deluged with tall tales. It was said that there were a good many big liars in the area who kept in top form through constant practice without the inducement of cash prizes.

EXTRA PRIZES FOR HORSEMEN

GRASS VALLEY: Richard Lostutter, wild west show chairman, announced yesterday that a $50 cash prize in addition to entrance fees would be added to the daily purse at the rodeo and wild west show scheduled Friday and Saturday at Watt Park.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder if this lovely realm
Of hills and vales and lovely flowers,
Is entering upon an age
Of happy and constructive hours,
In which we'll find in larger tasks
The joy our fathers knew of old
And under ever brightening skies,
March forward as our plans unfold.

This is indeed a fairy realm of trees and flowers, hills and vales, lakes and running streams, of unexcelled beauty and pure, invigorating air; it was not destined to remain quiescent, its unfoldment and expansion was to be expected.

Bright unforgettable days have come to Nevada County and dedications have become the order of the day. The radio station—our own radio station, dedicated June 23, is a magic dream come true. Surely, now that Nevada County has a voice, she will march forward in the assurance that her many allurements will be revealed, that the population will increase and that her works will prosper.

Upon the same day, June 23, a drinking fountain in Memorial Park was also dedicated. It will long stand in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Watt and its gift of refreshments will afford pleasure and inspiration to many a passerby.

North San Juan also had her hour of pride, for June 29, the new Catholic Church, just completed threw wide its doors and was dedicated with ceremonies in accordance with the rituaals of the faith which will be served.

And now comes the Fourth of July, and a glorious Fourth this will be. Twin cities will celebrate in the spirit of old and not for one day only, but for three full days of hilarity, mingled with proper consideration of the meaning of the day and of those benefits for which it stands.

Is it to be hoped that no shadow of internal strife will mar the days ahead, and that both labor and capital will realize their joint responsibility and work together for the good of the land in which they function.

As a county, as a state, as a nation, may we march on together and may next year's Centennial Fourth of July, be the most glorious one in the nation's history.

Bands will play, for Independence Day—The flag will float upon every breeze.

Vainly the prophets of Baal would rend it,
Vainly his worshippers pray for its fall;
Thousands have died for it, millions defend it,
Emblem of justice and mercy to all.
Justice that reddens the sky with her terror,
Mercy that comes with her white-handed train,
Soothing all passions, redeeming all errors,
Sheathing the sabre and breaking the chain.
